Rohde/Germany. We welcome our newest advertiser German furnace builder Rohde based in Bruchköbel, Germany (their ad can be found on this page). Rohde is a second generation company which has built a wide range of furnaces over the years including what we would consider is the largest pit carburizing furnace in the world which is located at commercial heat treater Reese in Bochum, Germany. We have this photo of part of the Rohde team which was taken two years ago, since that time the company has announced that they will be moving into a much larger facility. August 5/2015
